Rushing Will Be Concluded By Pledging Sunday November 24

EACH SORORITY TO TAKE EIGHT GIRLS

Rushing for the women, opened by the Panhellenic tea for all freshmen and transfers on November 1, extends through the next two weeks and will not be concluded until Sunday, November 24, when pledging will take place.

During the next two weeks, first and second parties will be given. Invitations to the first party were delivered to the freshmen Sunday night by members of Panhellenic. The schedule for first parties is as follows: Monday afternoon, Sigma Kappa; Monday evening, Phi Mu; yesterday afternoon, Alpha Xi Delta; yesterday evening, Kappa Kappa Gamma, this afternoon, Kappa Delta; tonight, Pi Beta Phi; tomorrow afternoon, Delta Delta Delta. These parties start at 4 o'clock in the afternoon and 7 o'clock in the evening and last for an hour and a half.

Panhellenic Forum

Tomorrow evening the senior members of Panhellenic will sponsor an informal forum to answer any questions about sororities. This discussion will take place at 7:30 p. m. in Forest recreation room.

On Friday, all freshmen and transfers will report to the office of Prof. Stephen A. Freeman between the hours of 10:30-12:30 a. m. and 1:30-4:00 p .m. At this time, each girl will list the names of those sororities whose second parties she would like to attend. The list will not include more than four names and will not be in preferential order.

Second Parties

Second parties, scheduled for next week, are planned as follows: Monday afternoon, Delta Delta Delta; evening, Sigma Kappa; Tuesday afternoon, Phi Mu; evening, Alpha Xi Delta; Wednesday afternoon, Kappa Kappa Gamma; evening, Kappa Delta; Thursday afternoon, Pi Beta Phi. These parties, lasting for one hour, start at 4:30 in the afternoon and 7:30 in the evening.

Freshmen and transfers may make out the list of their first three preferences at Professor Freeman's office in the Chateau from 3:00-5:00 o'clock Friday afternoon, November 22. Bids will be delivered the following morning and the answers must be in the mail by 2:00 p. m. the same day. Pledging will take place Sunday, November 24.

SPECIAL CHAPEL SERVICE HONORS ARMISTICE DAY

In a special, Armistice Day chapel service beginning at 10:55 and including a minute of silence at 11 o'clock, Professor Robert Davis presented a short address on the significance of the armistice to us today, concluding the special service with a 'Magnificat Americanus' which he had written.

Professor Davis began his speech with a brief description of the temper of the times during the armistice twenty years ago. Reviewing the destruction and chaos of a four years war, he declared that people had become "emotionally dumb" and that the most common question heard was "Will this never end?"

Today, declared the speaker we pay tribute to the symbol of the Unknown soldier. For it was he who gave what he had for his country. All the time he was abhorring war, hating the senseless destruction of life; he went to fulfill a duty because he couldn't withstand the power of the spark of his common decency.

It is this spirit that we honor on this day, said Prof. Davis. It was the courage which declares "Count me in because right is in the balance and we have never been quitters." Demo-

BUSHWHACKERS GO THROUGH SNOW

Last Sunday a truck-load of Mountain club members bushwhacked through a portion of the East range. The group was led by Truman H. Thomas '42.

Leaving Pearson's hall at 9 o'clock, the hikers encountered a snow flurry. It snowed during the entire trip and the ground was covered with several inches of snow at the highest point. Hot cocoa was served with the lunches, and the hikers waged snow fights.

East range is visible from the college, being the first group of mountains to the east. Last year the club bushwhacked through the same area.

There will be no hike on Sunday of this week or of the following week because of women's rushing.

Famous Pianist Gives Concert At Middlebury

By Ozanne J. Marsh

Dr. Egon Petri, the internationally famous Dutch pianist, gave a stunning performance last night at the Middlebury High school auditorium.

In spite of the mechanical difficulties which he encountered in the way of a small-sized, mediocre piano, this great master transcended all limitations. He played to a large, appreciative audience which called him back for four encores.

"Italian Concerto"

Mr. Petri's consciousness of musical line was put to its best effect in Bach's "Italian Concerto." The tonal effects of the slow movement were remarkable in their control and the thematic material of the final movement is seldom so clearly defined.

There may be a difference of opinion about Chopin's lyricism in his B-flat minor Sonata, but the feat which Mr. Petri performed in the last movement with the Busoni lower octove repetition, was one of those rare experiences of a lifetime.

The constant play of colour, the clarity of Schumann's contrapuntal intentions, plus Mr. Petri's indomitable intellectual personality, made the eight pieces of the "Fantasiestuecke" a memorable occasion.

Liszt Group

The sustained melody in Liszt's D-flat Etude and the intertwining theme of "Au bord d'une source," were brought out as if independent of their similar technical hazards. Exciting staccato accents were used in the Gnomenreigen—a thrilling effect. In the the Twelfth Rhapsody, Mr. Petri showed conclusively that octaves, trills, thirds, and arpeggios are merely a means to an end and not the ultimate goal. Perhaps Liszt would be revered in this country, as he should be, if present-day pianists played him the way Petri did last night.

Following this gigantic program the artist generously obliged the audience with four encores: "La Chasse" by Paganini-Liszt, "The Spinning-wheel" by Liszt, four Etudes (Op. 25 No. 1, Aeloian Harp; Op. 25 No. 2; Op. 25 No. 3; Op. 10 No. 12 (Revolutionary) and the "Berceuse" by Chopin, which brought the program to a close.

Personal Conferences

Mr. Petri stayed at Middlebury through today for personal conferences with interested members of the college. He spoke informally to classes in music yesterday and today. He spoke to members of the classes in music appreciation this afternoon, and this was followed by an informal tea, held in the social room of Forest East.

Sadie Hawkins Dance Certainly Shows Up Both Sides Of Question

By Nancy L. Cowgill '43

Sadie Hawkins has had her day! In the mens' dormitories, the ringing of the telephone will no longer mean that perhaps a member of the women's college of Middlebury is about to suggest a way to spend the evening of November 9. No—that day is gone forever, as the saying goes, and the men's college again has the perogative in the matter of date making.

Pre-dance press releases candidly asserted that the event would be just a regular gym dance with the only difference the fact that there would be girl "cut-ins." Little did the authors of this statement realize what a difference that would be! Girls lined up to look the crowd over from the stag line presented a much gayer picture in their bright attires than the somber-suited boys while the latter must have gotten a queer feeling in viewing that group and realizing that they couldn't count on their best friend or a fraternity brother to come out on the dance floor to relieve them. Not forgetting the men who usually make an appearance around intermission in casual dress, a number of Senior women decided to be their counterparts in "M" sweaters.

Coming as quite a shock to many, the idea of calling for dates at their respective abodes carried out the spirit of the thing to the final degree, while the men saw that the women felt the bitter side of the male situation by keeping their dates waiting while they put that last spot of nail polish on or took one last glance in the mirror. Walking on the street side of the walks to protect their dates and fighting for cokes for them at the dance are just examples of how completey Sadie did her part.

For the occasion, men were granted a special 11:30 late permission and in calling for men, the escorts were all impressed with the fact of how important it was that this ruling be observed. In Hepburn Social hall girls were forced to give the names of the ones whom they wished to escort to the housemother who in true boarding school fashion, called down the sheltered individuals only after "she" decided that their dates were approved of. Similar arrangements to see that the boys were properly signed out and accounted for were used elsewhere on the men's campus with one dorm providing even a white-gloved door man to add to the ladies' convenience.

According to all reports, a good time was enjoyed by all present including the thirty six Coast Guardsmen and the few unescorted men who were "smuggled" in; the coffers of the junior class are filled to overflowing and perhaps a new event has been added to the annual social calendar.

"PATRIOTISM" DESIGN TO BE FEATURED FOR SOPH HOP DECORATION

Keeping in spirit with the national trend of thought, the Soph Hop will present, as its theme of decorations, Patriotism.

Flags and bunting will cover the entire gymnasium, so that as the couples enter the main entrance their eyes will immediately focus on a vast sea of red, white, and blue. Hanging down from the girders at the ceiling, will be the large flags ,and bunting will cover the walls. A huge American flag will be suspended from the ceiling immediately in front of the stage and will serve to cut the stage off from the rest of the hall. The decorations are being handled by Metzgers, a professional concern in Rutland, who have decorated for dances at Dartmouth, Williams, Amherst, M.I.T. and others.

At the further end of the dance floor, the orchestra will be set up on staging, so that all might see the entire band in action, with particular reference to the featured colored pianist, Ernie Washington, who is an evening's entertainment in himself.

Corsages are forbidden, since there will be "a blazing galaxy of color" according to chairman Richard J. McGarry. Refreshments will be served free of charge and a good time is promised to all by its leaders. The date of the dance is Nov. 27. Music will be furnished by Harder Downing and his Continentals.

Women Postponing Cheerleading Plans

Rushing, Lack of Practice Periods Responsible for Deferring Plans Till '42

After planning on a feminine aggregation leading the cheering section at the Middlebury-Vermont game Saturday, Ruth H. Packard '41, president of Student Union, announced this morning that the proposal, enthusiastically accepted last week, had been postponed for this season.

The reasons given for the dropping of the plan were varied. Chief among them was that the sixteen girls who had volunteered to lead the cheers had not had sufficient time for preparation, and, fearing a "flop", had decided to wait until next year.

With sixteen girls signifying their intentions to try out for the three positions, the combined effects of a strenuous week plus women's rushing left no time for practice, according to the Student Union president, in her announcement this morning.

The plan of women cheer leaders, proposed at a recent meeting of the women's college, was approved by the Administration committee last week.

Cup Will Be Awarded for Fraternity House Decorations

LARGE RETURN OF ALUMNI FORCAST

Homecoming , an opportunity for graduates to see Middlebury at work and play and to attend the biggest home game of the year, is to be changed this week-end to give the alumni a better view of their alma mater.

A special feature this year will be the decorated fraternity houses. A cup is being offered by the Alumni council and the Interfratenity council for the fraternity whose decorations best exemplify the "Welcome Alumni" motif. Decorations will be judged for originality, appropriateness, and general appearance. The judges, who are to be announced later, will visit the various houses at noon Saturday, and the announcement of the award will be made at the informal dance Saturday night.

Informal Tea

Another innovation will be an informal tea for alumni and faculty at Gifford hall. The tea will be followed by a tour of representative rooms in the new men's dormitory. Miss Mary N. Bowles, assistant dietition, is in charge of the tea, and Mrs. Janet W. Kingsley, supervisor of men's dormitories, with John M. Nugent '41 and other members of the Blue Key, will conduct the tour of the rooms.

After registration beginning at 4:00 p. m. in Starr library on Friday, the alumni will be welcomed at the Homecoming rally in the gymnasium. There they will hear the band, songs, cheers, and short speeches by alumni, faculty members, and students. Following the rally will come the Freshman P-Rade in which the class of 1944 will show its feeling toward "our brothers by the lake" with the usual unusual floats.

Open Classes

Saturday morning will find the Middlebury reputation for high scholastic standing being tested by the visitors at open classes. At 10:00 a. m. the varsity and freshman cross country meets will begin with the varsity running first.

The members of the Alumni council will meet at the Middlebury Inn at 10:35. The national president, Mr. Philip A. Wright '09, of Washington, D. C. will preside.

The Alumni Fund committee, under Chairman William M. Meacham '21, will also report at this meeting. Last year the council decided to raise ten thousand dollars toward the restoration of faculty cuts which have been necessary for the last seven years. Funds raising objectives for 1941 will be discussed at this meeting.

Following the game, there will be open tea dances at all the fraternity houses. At 7:45 p. m., the Black Panthers will play at an informal dance, sponsored by the Undergraduate association in McCullough gymnasium.

Sunday vespers, at 5 p. m., will be the final activity of Homecoming. In place of the announced speaker, the Rev. Mr. Leslie Glenn of Cambridge, Mass. who is unable to attend the college choir, under the direction of Prof. H. Ward Bedford, with Mr. Dan P. Dickinson of the music department, will give a vespers concert.

Last Fraternity Smoker To be Held November 20

Men's rushing is approaching its final phase. The last of the series of four smokers will be held next Wednesday. Unrestrained relationships between first year men and fraternity men will continue until Thanksgiving recess, November 28.

From Thanksgiving until the first Thursday in December, December 5, all conversation on fraternity matters and all visitations between fraternity and first men shall cease.

Formal rushing will extend from Thursday until the following Friday. Saturday will be pledge day.

COMMON SENSE

With the annual Vermont-Middlebury football game scheduled for this week-end, the student body as a whole should guard against the spirit of rivalry manifesting itself in the damaging and defacement of college property.

Only last year, when Middlebury was to play Vermont at Burlington, a group of over-enthusiastic Vermonters came to Middlebury the night before the game, laden with pails of paint, intending to smear the college buildings. At this time, the agreement between the two schools, made by the student governments of both colleges two years previously, was still in effect.

Such an agreement is worthwhile only when the honor of both colleges is unquestionable, since there is no practical means of enforcing it. A plan for bonding each college for a certain sum of money might be devised, but it is clear that such a plan would be both impractical and unfair. Such an act would make the whole college suffer for the acts of a thoughtless few.

Since there seems to be no solution to the problem of enforcing such an agreement, there is only one course left, an appeal to the student bodies to restrain themselves and to direct their spirit into channels other than the damaging of college property. Such an appeal must be made directly to the student bodies of the colleges; a written or verbal agreement of the "hands off" nature is often neglected and unpublicized when other matters, seemingly more important, are pressing.

The Men's Assembly, seeing the importance of contacting each student on this matter, passed a resolution last Sunday night, stressing that our "gentlemen's agreement" is still in effect.

—W. L. H.

WELCOME HOME

At least once each year you graduates should return to college to see the changes, to renew old acquaintances and to become acquainted with the new members of the college. Homecoming seems an ideal time for this annual pilgrimage, because we have a lot to offer you this year.

Gifford hall, which was in a state of growing during Senior week, is now ready for occupation, and will be open for inspection Saturday afternoon. In addition to this, there is a rally starting the events of the weekend on Friday night, with open classes the following morning.

Then, Saturday afternoon, at Porter field, the Middmen meet Vermont. While the constantly-losing home club is the under-dog in this tilt, many of you will remember similar Middlebury teams which have gone onto the field with their defeat conceded by everyone but them—and have come out of the games with the Old Chapel ringing triumphantly.

Collection Of Modern Paintings On Display In Forest Stresses Design

A group of pictures demonstrating the effect of various lines on the observer's emotion, are now on exhibition in Forest recreation hall. The paintings, released by the Museum of Modern art, include reproductions of works of Van Gogh, Picasso, Corot, Degas, and others.

For example, there is Pacasso's "Absin the Drinker." This picture, painted while Picasso was still in his "blue mood," produces an effect of melancholy and tragic release by means of deep blue tones and a "ground" or question-mark shaped line. A similar use of rising and falling lines is found in the black and white "Chinese Landscape."

These same drooping curves when flung upwards in a "flame line" result in an expression of the dangerousness and intensity of emotion. The picture, "The Cypresses," as Van Gogh saw them from his sanitarium window, shows striking use of this flame line.

A similar effect of conflict and opposition produced by means of conflicting diagonals, is obtained by Picasso in his "Maternity." Quite opposed to this is his noted "Blue Boy." In this picture, the fundamental use of one single vertical line produces an effect of "severity and austerity."

Seemingly out of place in this collection of modern art is a fifteenth century "Madonna" by Van Eyck. The mother and child picture in a simple triangular arrangement produce "a majestic and imposing effect similar to that of a mountain range." Corot, in his "Madonna with the Pearls," utilizes the same triangular figure. By disturbing the simple lines of the triangle, however, he has gained greater effectiveness.

Orozco's "Tapitistas," Ryder's "Toilers of the Sea," Gauguin's "Ta Matete," Degas's "Ballet Dancer," Roualt's "The Old King," and reproductions of different artists' works represent other line-form emotional responses.

Dr. Arthur Hewitt Addresses Chapel

Stresses Need of Wearing "Whole Armor of God" in Present State of Turmoil

The Rev. Arthur Hewitt from Northfield, Vermont, speaking in Mead chapel Sunday, took as his text the idea that the people of today need to put on the "whole armor of God."

Reverend Hewitt said that today in a war-torn world we are faced with a great spiritual warfare which not only concerns us but necessarily involves us. Many people, he went on to say, feel that in the face of such conflict as the world goes through in these times older precedents and principles of faith lose their former importance.

In spite of this attitude, in reality it is increasingly important that we keep faith since without faith in God as a center we can never have those broad horizons of the spirit and the mind, which are needed today. In this respect lack of faith is mental deficiency.

Reverend Hewitt called for "spiritual self-conscription" as a means of assuming more fully the "whole armor of God." He asked that we make the most of ourselves, ever looking to the Bible as the source of God's revelations to man. Often, although we purpose to be upright and do our best in life we do not succeed and these times should heighten our determination to rally ourselves to a stronger faith; a faith in the "armor of God."

Plans for Buffet Supper, Wool Sale Discussed At Social Committee Meeting

Members of the social committee of the women's college met at the home of Mrs. W. S. Burrage last week to discuss plans for social activity during the remainder of this semester.

Plans for Sunday night buffet suppers were considered. Charlotte E. Gilbert '41 was put in charge of arrangements for a buffet supper to be held some time before Christmas vacation.

Arrangements for the angora wool sale sponsored by Miss Clara May Hemingway are under the direction of D. Pegram Williams '41.

Those on the Social committee are Miss Florence C. Allen, chairman; Dean Eleanor S. Ross, Mrs. W. S. Burrage, Miss Rose E. Martin, advisors; Ruth H. Packard '41, president of Student Union; Alice Taylor '42, vice-president of Student Union; Charlotte E. Gilbert '41, treasurer of Student Union; and Geraldine B. Mosher '41, president of Mortar Board. The representatives elected from each class are D. Pegram Williams '41, Nina C. Camuti '42, Patricia V. Rogers '43, and M. Leslie Wilson '44.

FRESHMAN CHOIR NOW REHEARSING CHRISTMAS MUSIC

Prof. H. Ward Bedford has announced that the freshman choir has over one hundred members this year. They have started to practice on Christmas music to be sung at the annual choral concert which will be given just before Christmas vacation.

The music on which the freshman choir is working consists mainly of different arrangements of Christmas carols. The Christmas concert and the concert on Good Friday are the two concerts the freshman choir gives each year.

Members of the freshman choir who are members of all classes in the college meet every Thursday afternoon at 4:30 This choir has been organized in order to give its members enjoyment and practice in singing.

FRENCH PLAY HAS STUDENT ACTORS

The next meeting of the French club will be held on Tuesday, November 26 at the Chateau. The program for the evening will consist of a play under the direction of Prof. Albert Ranty. Included in the cast of the play, which is to be "Dans La Jungle" by D'Hervilliez, are Margaret D. Buscher '42, Ralph C. deCastro '43, Raymond G. Morrow '41 and Mr. Berkely W. Hotchkiss, a graduate student. Following the play, there will be singing and games.

"MEXICAN MUSIC" IS TOPIC TONIGHT

The Spanish club will hold a meeting this evening at 8:00 in Forest recreation room. At this time, Prof. Juan A. Centano will address the group on the subject "Mexican Music." Also to be included in the program is a practice of the Spanish Christmas carols which will be sung when the organization goes caroling just before the Christmas holidays.

Professor Robert Davis Speaks Of French People Since Invasion

Professor Robert Davis spoke at Women's Forum meeting, November 6. His topic was "The Conditions in France Now."

In beginning his speech, Professor Davis suggested two topics. The members of the Forum voted on whether they would like to hear about a trip to Northern Africa or about French conditions, a subject with which Professor Davis is familiar. He had been living in Southern France for the half year preceding September. His wife who is still there smuggles letters out to him.

Answering the question "How do the French and the invaders harmonize?" Professor Davis said that they get along surprisingly well. The soldiers who police France have been cautioned to be very correct as the French are sore and raw and need careful handling.

"I'm saying things it hurts to say, but it's the truth," said Professor Davis. Forty soldiers of the invading army were quartered at the Davis farm. According to Professor Davis, they are quiet, clean, decent, honorable men, though they are a little stupid. The invader refugees near the farm are clean and quiet. The French children watching them say in surprise "They're just like us."

Professor Davis spoke of the girl in their home who is one of the sensible, stolid girls in grey uniforms that the invader sends over. They are supposed to be a good influence on the frivolous French girls.

The French and the invaders harmonize because the invaders have tried so hard to make a good impression, Professor Davis said. Posters with a picture of a soldier carying a smiling child with the caption "You can always trust a good German soldier" are placed everywhere.

Professor Davis answered the question "What do they have to eat?". If the invaders had left the crops for the country there would have been enough, but they have taken the crops to feed the army of occupation and to send away. They milk cows, sell the skim milk to the families with children, and send the cream away. In the cities rations are strict and the bread lines are long.

The feeling of the French people toward their government is one of great disillusionment, Prof. Davis pointed out. France was a free republic, too free. After the fall of France, the minister of public information, who used propaganda to keep the people ignorant of the French limitations, was arrested by a disappointed people. The country looked up to the government

Music Studio Purchases New Set of Phonograph Record Players; Earphones Distinctive Feature

The Music studio has recently installed a set of four phonograph record players and listening attachments. Suggested by Mr. Alan Carter, the sets will enable more students to use the college record library, and will help to keep the music studio quiet.

"I noticed a similar set-up at Dartmouth," explained Mr. Carter. After inquiries were made a Hanover firm was contacted to construct the units for Middlebury. "The nice thing about this arrangement is that more units may be added as desired. The only other possible system would be to construct sound-proof listening partitions. But we do not have the room," he said.

Each of the units installed consists of a record player, electrical pick-up and amplification circuit, and earphone listening attachments. Every set has an individual motor drive and tone and volume regulators. Two headphone outlets are installed with every unit. At the present time there are only four headphones in use.

Discs of the college record library are to be used. The Record library is open every afternoon at appointed times. Students must sign out for the records before they can use them. A record librarian is on duty at all times when the library is open. Howard L. Hasbrouck '41 and Warren S. Hasmer '43 are record librarians.

A two-thousand record library, the gift of the Carnegie foundation, is the basis of the college collection. Recent purchases have augmented the supply. The records are used in class instruction, in the Music studio by those interested, and in the recently inaugurated Sunday musicales.

Chapel Tower Life Shown Objectively

"Bells, Bells, Bells" — or What Transpires "When The Midd Chimes Ring"

By Roger S. Arnold '42

Every day in the week excepting Sundays the chimes resound from Chapel hill at five thirty. Their melodious tones are a tradition at Middlebury for they have been played everyday in the school year since 1915 when they were installed. That is, of course, exempting the few times when the chimers fell asleep and forgot to function.

The chimes were presented to the College by John Abner and Mary Sherman Mead and are located in the tower of Mead Memorial chapel. The chimes, collectively speaking, consist of eleven bells ranging in size two and one half to five five feet in height. The five foot tenor bell summons us to Chapel every morning at ten. The bells are played from a box-shaped framework console by a series of handle levers very much like those on Dad's wheelbarrow. Eleven levers, one for each bell, are mounted on the console in a row about four inches apart. The console in turn is mounted on cork with springs between the bolt and washer to ease the terrific jar which is incurred when the hammer hits the bell and drops back into place.

While the chimer is jumping about pushing down levers, a very simple but interesting mechanical operation is taking place in the belfry above. The bells are mounted in a square in the upper region of the tower excepting the huge tenor bell which is hung above the rest. Each bell has a hammer which gives its owner a powerful slap when the chimer decides to push the lever down. As soon as the hammer hits the bell it is pulled back into place by a strong spring attached to the pulley. This enables the note to resound clearly. The biggest hammer belonging to the tenor bell weighs seventy-five pounds.

The technique used in playing these bells is quite difficult according to Roderick J. Hemphill '43, our present chimer. The levers in the console are played with both hands but the left must push a heavier weight as the bells in the lower part of the scale are the biggest. The right hand, however, has to push harder than the left, although the bells are smaller, in order to obtain a unity of tone between treble and bass.

Although chime playing has come a long way since the days of Quasimodo the task is still difficult for the chimer must jump from one lever to another and practically stand on his head to play the bells in unison. Notice in the belfry reads "these bells are operated by manual labor."

And so, the chimes in Mead Memorial chapel have become another of Middlebury's traditions. Sometimes we don't notice them, but we would miss them if they weren't played.

Women's Team Debating U.N.H. Friday Evening

Ruth Hardy '41 and Alice J. Austin '42 will be the members of the women's debating team to make a trip to Wolfboro, New Hampshire, on Friday. There they will debate against the University of New Hampshire at Brewster academy. The question will be on the enlargement of federal powers, with the Middlebury team taking the negative side. It will be a decision debate and the judges will be selected by the academy.

A trip to Boston will be made by some members of the team on December 9 and 10. At that time debates will be held with Radcliffe college, Boston university, and Salem Teachers college. The questions have not been chosen for any of these. The debate with Salem will be broadcast over the radio and will be a non-decision debate.

Plans are also being made for a debate with St. Lawrence university to be held in the beginning of December and for a New Jersey trip some time in the spring.

Officers Elected At Progressive League Meeting

A regular meeting of the Middlebury Progressive league was held in the Fine arts room of the library on Tuesday, November 5 at half past seven. The meeting was called to order by the president, Peter N. Bohn '43, and business was discussed.

Most of the meeting was devoted to a discussion of a new plan of organization for the league, which was presented by Manuel B. Santullano '43. The new plan divides the administrative responsibility among three committees, one each for internal and external business of the league, and one general committee for correlating the work of the other two.

Elections to fill the newly-created offices resulted as follows. In the general committee, Peter N. Bohn '43 was elected general secretary: his assistants are George W. Nitchie '43, financial secretary and Jean D. Butterfield '42 recording secretary. Charles B. Gilbert '42 was chosen exterior secretary, with Lois H. Schneider '42 as assistant in charge of publicity. W. Tyler Long is to be interior secretary, while Manuel B. Santullano '43, assisted by Barbara York '42, will work with him as head of the program committee.

An executive committee, consisting of the heads of committees and subcommittees will manage the league's business between meetings. This group was designated by the league to draft an amendment to its constitution providing for the new scheme of organization.

The old organization called for a president, a vice-president, an executive secretary, and a treasurer. Principal complaint against this system was that it concentrated the administrative power of the league in the hands of relatively few members, while the newer plan provides for more general participation of all the members.

It was also decided at the meeting to change the dues for members from ten cents a meeting to fifty cents for each semester.

BAND PLAYS AGAIN IN GAME SATURDAY

By Phyllis L. Dodds '43

After a short period of non-existence, the Middlebury College band had a fine revival at last week's game. Its efforts were warmly received by the students who seemed anxious to give it all the support possible. The band will perform on Saturday at the game with U. V. M.

On Monday it played at the Armistice day celebration in the town. Mr. Alan Carter, instructor in music, is planning to form a concert group of the band. This group would make a tour during the winter months. Heretofore, the band has disintegrated after the football season. It is hoped that the formation of such a group will help to hold the band together, as well as to provide concert programs for the students and people in nearby localities.

Fiori Prudanzano, conductor of the Burlington free band, has been helping the players during the season. He has been here to direct at all the games. Places are still open for those who wish to join.

The Middlebury College band is the only voluntary college student band in Vermont. Its drum major is John W. Holt '41. Water E. Jones '41, is the manager.

GRIDIRON GLEANINGS

Plenty of upsets from coast to coast this week, but unfortunately the little man who picks those things out of the hat overlooked the luckless Panthers . . . . the frosh came through as scheduled however. . . .they looked like the proverbial million bucks in that first quarter as they rolled all over the helpless Kittens. . . .it was a battle of new coaches—Sherry Fogg, ex-Bellows Falls high school mentor, and Sam Guarnaccia—and the latter took first blood in what may be the first of many, many meetings. . . .

We thought for a while that we were down in the southwest. . . .the plebes really poured on the razzle-dazzle with first down passes, tricky laterals and fancy reverses completely bewildering the Vermonters. . . .with four tossers like Hale, Flemming, Urban and Grant Coach Sammy could afford to take to the air considerably . . . .

The rarely seen slugging penalty was enforced in the fourth period of the frosh game. . . . Sedlist Catamount lineman, was given the heave-ho and the Middmen were awarded 17 yards, half the distance to the goal. . . .also noticeable was the substitute tackle for the Vermonters who had only one arm. . . .this boy must really love the game; he deserves all the praise in the world for plugging along at it. . . . we hear he is liable to blossom into the number 1 man on the Cats' tennis team before many springs have passed . . . .

But back to the hapless varsity. . . . it was just the Panthers' tough luck to hit the Coast Guard just when the sailors were at their peak. . . .the New London lads were riding the crest as the result of their last ditch 27-7 win over Wesleyan. . . .Thompson and company broke a 7-7 tie with 20 points no less with only seven minutes left in the game. . . . .

Year after year the Coast Guard is building up a stronger team. . . .they are probably the cleanest team the Panthers face, but it certainly could not be said that they play any the less hard for all of their gentlemanliness. . . .after the third team had come into the game for the visitors, it began to look as though everyone in the academy would play before the end. . . .

Admittedly the Panthers are having a bad year, but figures never lie, and on the basis of a few simple figures we are at least 40 points better than mighty Pittsburg. . . .it runs something like this. . . .we were beaten by 8 points by Williams which in turn lost by 1 point to Army, making us 9 points weaker than the Cadets. . . . Army lost to Notre Dame by 6 points, so we are 15 weaker than Notre Dame which drubbed Carnegie Tech 61-0. . . .at this point we are 46 points better than Carnegie Tech and 40 points better than Pitt which took Carnegie over 6-0 last Saturday. . . . Q.E.D. . . . .on second thought we're also 28 points better than Fordham. . . . New York papers please copy. . . .

Up at Centennial Field last Saturday the Cadets won their first state crown in a long, long time. . . . it was Dynamo Domina again scoring 20 points to run his total for the year to 104. . . . unfortunately for the Dynamo, whose season is all done, Hunt of Marshall college scored 32 points in his last game to bring his total to 114 and nips Wild Walter's dream of national top honors. . . .Liebel added 6 points to give him a total of 56 and should take national honors in the end division in a walk. . .

Our sympathy for poor old Duke Nelson. . . .just when it appeared that the old Panther star was set for an undefeated and untied season his great team was tripped by Worcester Tech 14-13. . .

Fate seems to have caught up with Nels Nitchman's Union laddies too. . . . after an undefeated season and a winning string of 13 straight, the Garnet finally crumbled. . . .Williams, R. P. I., Vermont and Rochester have trimmed them now in the last four weeks. . . .

The game that has plenty of the boys on the edge of their seats is the clash next Saturday between Boston College and Georgetown, two of the East's greatest gridiron machines. . . .

Intramurals

The fall stretch of the college's intramural program is drawing to a close with the completion of the men's singles tennis tournament and the finishing of the team volley ball matches.

Shortly after the Vermont game the winter competitions start with the individual handball tournament. Coach Kelly, in charge of intramurals stated that the entrants for this tournament must be signed up on the sheet before the 23rd of this month.

The tennis tournament is entirely completed except the playing of the final match between Tom Macdonald '43 and Fred Williams '44. The match for third place position will be played between Lew Haines '43 and Parke Wright '42.

Panther Frosh On Top By 13-0 Score

Pepin and Flemming Tally Against Catamounts At Burlington

The Old Chapel victory bell tolled out Monday in recognition of the first freshman victory over the Vermont kittens since 1936. Led by the running of Bob Sheehan, and the line play and punting of Holly Hollister, the Panther plebes battered the Vermont club into a 13-0 submission.

Scoring early in the first period by virtue of a twenty-seven yard touchdown pass from Ed Flemming to game captain Art Pepin, the yearlings showed their clear superiority in every department. Near the end of the first frame, Pepin recovered a Vermont fumble on the seven and Ed Flemming bucked over in two plays. Hale converted to end the scoring at 13-0.

Sheehan Outstanding

In the backfield rugged little Bob Sheehan appeared to be the standout back. Several times during the game Bob carried the mail for fifteen and twenty yard gains, while his handling of punts was excellent. Along with Sheehan, the names of Flemming and Hale should be mentioned. The former was instrumental in the first score and his passing during the first half helped the plebes toward several gains. The latter displayed a great brand of quarterbacking as he mixed in a judicious selection of razzle-dazzle plays with the usual dependable sweeps and off tackle slants.

Although the scoring was confined to the first period, the game was by no means lacking in thrills. The Vermont Kittens put on several abortive attempts to push the pigskin forward, but seemed to lack punch.

Rooney Carries

In the second period Tom Rooney, understudy for Bob Sheehan, contributed to the Middlebury cause by sweeping the left flank for twelve yards. After Grant and Urban had picked up seven yards through the line, a pass from Grant to Rooney netted nine yards and a first down on the Vermont 24.

After five minutes of play in the third canto, Bob Sheehan took the leather on a weak side reverse which was good for fifteen yards to the Vermont 19. Ed Flemming picked up six yards towards the next first down, but a five yard offside penalty and two incompleted passes rendered the gains worthless.

Early in the final quarter the Panther first year men instigated a sustained drive that nearly resulted in a third score. Bob Sheehan took a Riddell kick on his own 30 and ran it back eighteen yards to the Midd 48. A penalty against Vermont advanced the ball five yards. At this point Sheehan again carried around left end for fifteen yards to the Vermont 34. A 17 yard penalty against Vermont for slugging placed the ball on the Cats' 17. Flemming then carried off right tackle for 5, and on the next play Johnny Urban lugged the leather to the Vermont 4, but inadvertently fumbled, thereby ending a scoring chance.

After the ball game was over, the election of a season's captain was held. Johnny Urban's mates honored him with the captaincy of the undefeated team.

SPRINGFIELD DEFEATS MIDDLEBURY HARRIERS; MEET UVM TEAMS HERE

This Saturday the Middlebury cross country teams will meet U. V. M. for their final contests of the year and only home appearances. The varsity contest will begin at 10 a. m. and the freshmen will run at 10:30.

The Catamounts are heavily favored in the varsity meets with the Webster twins expected to lead the field. Fred Webster placed eighth and Charlie tenth in the New England intercollegiate cross country race last Monday. The Vermont team as a unit placed fifth.

In the freshman race it is expected that Harold Parker of the Cubs and Bill Goodell of the Kittens will fight for first place. Goodell was the outstanding runner on the Middlebury freshman team two years ago and Parker is also a fine runner.

Last Saturday Middlebury lost to Springfield college by a score of 15 to 40. Badrow and Christy tied for first for Springfield. Swettman, Schumn, Adams, Buckley, Booth and Waters tied for second. Dave Smith was the first of the Panthers and Captain Freddie Butler, Pete Stanlis and Howie Schlieder were tied for second.

Coast Guardsmen Score Decisive 33-0 Victory Over Weak Middmen

By Bucky Hatfield

The Middlebury Panthers became another notch in the Coast Guard gun last Saturday on Porter Field as Jack Thompson and Bob Drury, et al, sparked the Little Navy to an impressive 33-0 victory.

After five minutes of play in the first frame, the Panthers had the pigskin on their own 17. A bad pass from center got by Johnson, standing in punt formation, and when he failed to cover in the end zone, Tharp fell on the ball for the first score. Thompson's successful kick brought the score to 7-0. After Cosgrove had fumbled the run-back of O'Neill's kick-off, Coast Guard took the ball on Middlebury's 33; Shephard went off tackle for eight; and Thompson, on one of the Coast Guard reverses dashed to the three, where Will Mayo pulled him down. Shephard plunged over for the counter. Thompson's attempt at conversion was wide, and the score stood at 13-0.

Panthers Roll

After the kick-off which was downed on the Panther 31, Johnson connected with a pass to Bertuzzi which was good to the Sailor's 40. After an unsuccessful plunge and two incompleted aerials, Johnson kicked to Carter, who fumbled. Beach made the recovery for the Panthers on the Coast Guard 8. Johnson picked up three off left guard, and then repeated the play, putting the ball on the Coast Guard 2. A running play was smeared, and on the next play, as Johnson attempted to pass, the ball was knocked out of his hand and Tharp recovered on the Coast Guard 16 to end the scoring threat.

In the second period Coast Guard launched a sustained drive from their own one, and in fourteen plays and six first downs, culminated the march as Tibbets tallied from the one. Since Drury's try for the extra point was wide, the scoreboard read 19-0.

After the Beckmen had failed to gain ground to any extent early in the third frame, Johnson punted to Carter, who ran the ball back twenty yards to the Seamen's own 40. At this point Jack Thompson, triple threat man, went off tackle, and with the aid of beautiful down-field blocking, carried to the Panther 40. From here Coast Guard worked the ball into scoring position, but failed to count as Carter fumbled on the 4.

Pass to Garland

Johnson then passed to Garland for a first down on the Midd 25, but an intercepted pass gave the ball to Coast Guard on the 37. A Thompson to Norton aerial put the ball on the 15, and Carter tallied on a reverse from Shephard; this jacked the score to 26-0 as Thompson converted.

Late in the final canto, Drury intercepted a Chapman pass on the Coast Guard 20, running the oval up to the 35. Drury then carried the leather five, nine, six, and thirty-two yards in successive plays to set the ball on the Midd 18. Frost on the next play, starting on a bootleg reverse, dashed fourteen yards to the Panther 4. From this point Cattafo swept the end to register the final touchdown. Kincaid made the extra point good to end the scoring at 33-0.

Catamounts Are Favorites In Spite of Parallel Cadet Scores

UVM OUT TO BREAK PORTER FIELD JINX

This Saturday at Porter Field the most disastrous football season in recent Middlebury gridiron history will end. Co-stars with the Panther in this grand finale will be the Catamonuts of U. V. M. and for the first time in a good many years no state title rests on the results of this wind-up game between two traditional foes.

On paper, despite their being defeated by Norwich by the same margin by which the Beckmen went under-38-7—the Cats reign as favorites. However, there is a lot of honest fact in the old idea of pre-game favorites meaning little or nothing in a state ball game. Furthermore the Catamounts have not scored a win on Porter Field since 1922, and that is a long, long time.

Catamounts Off and On

The Cats have played spotty football all year long. They looked poor in beating Northeastern 7-0 in their opener and worse in losing to Trinity 8-3 and Colby 10-7. They snapped out of it to play brilliant ball against Union, winning 19-7, and New Hampshire whom they defeated 33-13. However they dropped back as R. P. I. downed them 12-0 and Norwich clinched the state crown with a 38-7 scalping.

It can't be lack of players that has handicapped Fuzzy Evans in his first year with the Cats, but "senioritis" may be the real cause of the poor season. Only Phil Chesarone at center is a sophomore and most of the regulars and second team are playing their last year of varsity ball.

Evans will probably start his first eleven with Bill Pye and Dick Salmon at end, Boots Lawrence and Swede Carlson at tackles, Bill Benoit and Norm Strassburg guards and Phil Chesarone at the pivot. Misty Rice, Johnny Spasyk, Mickey Gilbert and Captain Frankie Taylor will start in the Catamount backfield. In most games Evans has used his second team as a unit with White and Paterson ends, C. Long and Babits tackles, Koladza and Nichols guards and Earl Reed at center. The sub backfield has George Corsonnes or Ace Parker calling signals for Utley, Shaw and Broutsas.

Finale for Taylor

Despite their failure through the majority of the season, the Catamounts pack plenty of punch, especially in their backfield and the Panthers must not underrate this power. Frankie Taylor, captain and triple threat left half of the Cats, has been next to powerless this year, but this is the last game of his long football career for the Brattleboro boy.

Besides Taylor, Boyd Utley and Butch Broutsas will also be playing their last game in the Green and Gold backfield. In the line ends Pye, Paterson and Salmon, tackles Lawrence and Carlson, and Strassburg at guard will be playing their finale.

Two years ago Vermont came to Porter Field as overwhelming favorites, only to bow to the Porter Field jinx and an inspired Panther team by a 7-0 score as Johnny Kirk grabbed a last ditch pass for the game's lone touchdown. Vermont gained sweet revenge at Burlington last year winning 20-0 over an injury-ridden Middlebury eleven.

Jack Johnson, the Panthers' best running, passing and punting threat, suffered a slight concussion of the brain against Coast Guard last Saturday. He was released from the hospital yesterday, and he will no doubt start against the Vermonters. Just how much the injury will hamper his playing remains to be seen.

Tony Wishinski, slashing backer-up, also will not be at his peak for the windup clash. Tony was forced out of the game with the Guardsmen with a leg injury, and his head injury suffered against Norwich has not completely cleared up. Colt Jones, sophomore tackle, was released from Porter Hospital yesterday, but he is through for the year as far as football is concerned.

Students Move Into Gifford Hall Today

Starr Hall and Weybridge To be closed This Year For Work of Repairing

By William G. Allen '43

Three days of hectic activity, and moving to Gifford hall, newest and most modern of dormitories, will be completed.

Yesterday saw the first students straggling up the hill under burdens of clothes, radios, typewriters, etc. Throughout the day trucks loaded at Starr and Weybridge transported possessions that varied from overstuffed chairs through trunks to the inevitable shaky paste-board carton up to the fourth and fifth floor rooms in Gifford. Today moving continues and will until tomorrow, when the last of the first floor "roomies" fill the building.

Moving days have not been without their humorous moments, as rain soaked stacks of hand-carried possessions and beat into the loaded trucks. More than one weak-bottomed carton has strewn its varied contents down the stairs of Starr, or, perhaps, later collapsed in a Gifford hallway. And then there was the groundsmen's trash wagon, last seen being pushed up the hill and piled high as a peddler's cart.

Inside Gifford such a scene will never be seen again. Corridors blocked with newly-arrived possessions become more congested as furniture dragged up the stairs finally comes to rest on the fifth floor. Big easy chairs, lamps, stacks of blankets, trunks, the inevitable over-stuffed box and even cot beds are scattered through the building as the new occupants take over the once locked and carefully guarded rooms.

The suites in this new dormitory are familiar to the student body, the result of visits during the construction and even more frequent ones within the past few weeks. Now the colonial styled furniture—desk, table, dresser, chairs and bed—and the complete accessories, including rugs, give the rooms their finishing touches. Modern lighting, under-the-window radiators and the new noise-deadening ceilings are other evidences of the most that can be desired in college rooms.

Starr hall and Weybridge house, for many years dormitories, have had their last hordes of freshman (and upperclassmen) in this stage of their existence. After daily suffering during the past six weeks from more than usual destructive forces, they will be closed for reconstruction.

Three days—yesterday, today and tomorrow—and the confusion of packing, unpacking, thorough soaking from rain, wind and numberless minor difficulties, and the "James M. Gifford Memorial Hall for Boys" becomes occupied.

Coach Arthur M. Brown At Hamilton Dedication

Coach A. M. Brown, director of athletics, returned yesterday from Hamilton college in Clinton, New York where he represented Middlebury College at the dedication of a new half-million dollar gymnasium.

As the guest from Middlebury, Coach Brown was present at the Hamilton-Haverford football game and the dinner following the dedication ceremonies. He states that with this new, modern gymnasium and an indoor field, Hamilton has the complete athletic set-up for a small college.

Coach Brown also continued on to meet Professor Savage of Oberlin college, and they arranged a program for a group of liberal arts colleges which meet in the interests of intercollegiate athletics. This group, of which Professor Savage is president and Coach Brown secretary, will meet in New York city during the Christmas vacation.

cracy was saved by those who fought in the last war, but not for Europe. We in this country and in South America are the heirs to the last remnants of democracy which men who died in the war saved for the whole world.

In closing his brief address Prof. Davis read a 'Magnificat Americanus' which he had written as a declaration of what only the people in this country are able to say about their democratic heritage. It included a declaration of all the democratic principles which characterize "our way of life", the last of its kind on earth.

EXHIBIT OF STEPS IN MAKING A BOOK SHOWN IN LIBRARY

An exhibit to show the development of a book, from the first rough draft written by the author through the publication of the completed volume has been set up in the main room of the library.

The book, "In the Money," by William Carols Williams, starts with the first rough draft, written in longhand, with many corrections and additions. Part two of the exhibit is a neatly typed amplification of the preceding manuscript. Corrected, revised, extended, curtailed, rearranged, altered, part two has the appearance of a "D" paper fully corrected.

By the time the third draft is reached, the chapter illustrated has changed its title from "Approach to the City" to "Back to the City," and we are vividly impressed with the distinctive smell of a railroad car.

In the final step, the punctuation is completed, verbs are made to agree with their subjects, and dangling participles and split infinitives are carefully removed. "Back to the City" is so marked that it will be set in the proper type, and the chapter title is moved over to the lefthand side of the paper.

The next step is to find a publisher. Then linotypists proceed to ruin the careful work of the author, who must then read proofs for the final errors. The pages printed, the book is bound and is passed on to the reviewers, while the author waits hopefully for their criticisms.

PROFESSOR DAVIS PICTURES FRANCE

and to Reynaud whom they called "Mickey Mouse." They were, therefore, shocked when Reynaud was found escaping to Italy after the defeat.

Of the defeat, the older ministers and the better editorial pages say "This was coming to us". They believe that France was immoral at the core, and that a smaller and better France will come out of this defeat.

How much the French will do in the way of building up depends upon the invader, who has the old medieval idea of conquest that whatever is conquered is conquered heart and soul.

A dangerous problem for this winter, according to Professor Davis, is that which would arise when the French men are let out of prison. The invaders have to have men for the industrial plan that has been set up. When these men get back and find their fields and cattle being used by the invader and their homes even invaded, there will be a difficult social situation with which the invader may have trouble.

Neutral Women Organize; H. Barrett '42, President

Adelaide E. Barrett '42 was unanimously elected to the presidency of the neutral women's organization at a meeting in Forest hall on Monday evening. In addition to elections, plans for the social program of the semester were discussed.

Officers who will serve during the present semester are: Virginia L. Smith '42, vice president; Elva A. Tarbell '43, secretary; Elizabeth C. Blanchard '42, treasurer; Helen G. Rotch '43, activities chairman; Marcia Sanders '42, scholastic chairman; and Elizabeth R Harlow '42, social chairman. These officers were nominated from the floor and by volunteer to make the elections democratic.

A party will be held on Monday evening, November 25 for the new members from the freshman class. An informal dance is planned to be held sometime after the Christmas vacation.

Meetings of the organization will be conducted every Monday evening until the end of this semester. Several suggestions for a name of the group were made, but action was deferred to the next meeting. An amendment to the constitution was also discussed, which would raise the semester fee of active members to twenty-five instead of ten cents per semester, in addition to a small charge for attendance of social functions.

The constitution has not yet been entirely approved by the charter committee as it stands, and has not yet passed the women's Student Union. However, the neutral women decided to hold their elections so that, in case the constitution shall be approved by the proper committees, they may go ahead with the program.
